Which diaper should I use with Pampers Aqua Pure baby wipes?

We recommend using Pampers Pure Protection diapers with Pampers Aqua Pure wipes. Pampers Pure Protection Diapers are free of chlorine bleaching, fragrance, parabens, and latex* (*natural rubber).

How can I treat and prevent diaper rash?

Red bumps on your baby's bottom may mean diaper rash. It can be caused by many factors, including leaving urine or bowel movement on the skin too long between changing diapers or even as a result of taking antibiotics. And when your baby starts solid foods, wait a few days between introducing each new food to see if the rash was caused by a particular food.

What should I know about wiping my baby?

All Pampers baby wipes help clean away bacteria, even after a wet change. Have a supply handy while changing diapers to help keep your baby clean and fresh.

For baby girls, while changing diapers, always wipe from the front to back to minimize the amount of stool material that gets near her genitals. Also, be careful to clean all areas, as the folds in the skin around her genitals can hide urine and soil.

Are Pampers wipes safe for my baby?

Yes! Babies' health and safety is our first priority at Pampers. Our wipes are thoroughly tested to confirm they are safe for your baby and your baby's skin.
