Our safety outlet plug covers 50-pack will give you a bigger bang for your buck and allow you to childproof your home, office, garage, vacation home, grandparents' home or hotel room without having to spend a small fortune! As a concerned parent, you know that exposed electrical outlets are a big safety hazard for your young child. You keep them covered, so you're not too worried about it. But curious and determined hands can remove generic ones without a lot of effort. Outlet covers should slide in easily but be somewhat difficult for adults to remove, and almost impossible for children. There are two ways to make sure that an outlet cover will protect your child from harm: Unnoticeable so as not to invite your child to touch it, and so tight-fitting that it's hard even for you to remove. We designed an outlet cover that meets those safety demands so you can rest easy and allow your child to explore unencumbered.

Protect Your Child From Harm

Electrocution is one of the most common risks for infants and young children. That means your home is always a potential danger unless you have socket covers. Child development and safety experts recommend outlet covers as a parent's #1 safety essential in the home. They're even more important than safety gates! Why? Because children are curious and want to touch everything they see. Little fingers can slide right into those slits the second you turn your back. This risk may be preventable when you choose our high-quality outlet covers with electrical insulating material.

Hard To Remove By Children

When has hard to remove ever been a key feature of a product? When it concerns outlet covers. They should be somewhat difficult for you to remove and almost impossible for your child. That's why ours are the #1 safest choice, safer than other generic brands that are loose, flimsy, and simple for small, curious hands to remove. Our outlet covers are durable and thick enough to fit snugly into the slots but they're super easy to install. You'll whip through securely babyproofing your house in no time.

Fits Right In

You want your home to be babyproofed, but it doesn't have to look that way! We intentionally made our outlet covers non-showy so as not to attract your child's attention. As a bonus, they support any style home decor too.

For Your Entire Home

If you live in the average American home, you have a lot of electrical outlets to cover. That's why we bulk-sized our outlet cover, so that you have more than enough to babyproof every room in your house.

BPA-Free

If you're babyproofing your home, why would you choose outlet covers made from cheap, plastic that contains harmful chemicals? We went the full mile and designed a safer outlet cover from high-quality BPA-free material.
